DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

- Claim 5 fails to provide a concrete, useful and tangible result. In particular, the mere step of offering does not provide a tangible result unless a step of offer acceptance and a step of providing the van are claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rebchook (Rebchook, John, "Getting a move on providing van for customers just part of the package for home seller", Nov 28, 1998, pg 2B.)

Regarding claims 1, 2, 5, Rebchook teaches the concept of a Real Estate agent providing the use of a free moving truck for his home-buying customers. Rebchook teaches that the van provides a perk that distinguishes him from his competition and that it provides an additional level of service which has been quite successful. While Rebchook teaches a REMAX real estate agent, it would have been obvious for any home-buying service provider to have provided such a free van, including providers of mortgage financing in order to help their customers and to distinguish themselves from other mortgage provider competition.

Regarding claim 3, Official Notice is taken that it is well known to provide advertising on the outside of business vehicles that advertise that business as the vehicle is driven around town. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention to have provided advertising such as the name, company, email, website, tel number etc on the outside of the moving van/truck in order to advertise the business.

Regarding claim 4, Official Notice is taken that it is well known to stock moving van with required equipment such as moving blankets, dollies, boxes, packing tape, etc. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention to have provided any of these materials to the customers as an additional perk to assist with the chore of moving.
